Premium Lots Now Available from Brookfield Residential

New phase at Midtown opens highly desirable home sites

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. (Nov. 26, 2013) – Brookfield Residential, the company that first established the ‘Home Evolved’ concept in Denver home building, has now made multiple premium lots available in the Midtown at Clear Creek neighborhood.

Following a well-received debut of its first homes at Midtown early this year, Brookfield Residential now moves into its second phase of building in that area, with a selection of alley-loaded lots that will address most home-buyers’ requirements.

These new lots are slightly larger, on street corners. Sales agents at Brookfield Residential have fielded requests for these kinds of lots all year, and now they are available for reservation. Home buyers can visit the sales office at 1730 W. 67th Ave. in Denver, choose the lot that suits them best, then choose one of six models to build on that lot.

“We are delighted to make these lots available to the people who have envisioned their dream homes in a particular setting,” said Perry Cadman, general manager of Brookfield Residential in Colorado. “And we are happy to be the ones to construct those dream homes for them.”
